Set Yourself Apart Get Your Residential Project Green Certified to the National Green Building Standard Tuesday, January 10, 2012

Presenter:

Michelle Desiderio, Director, Green Building Programs,
NAHB Research Center

Until recently, single-family and multifamily residential buildings have lagged the green certification market. The National Green Building Standard is the first green building standard approved by ANSI and offers a flexible, credible, and affordable rating system for single-family and multifamily residential developers. The Standard establishes practices for the design and construction of green residential buildings, renovations, and land developments. Come learn about the

President's Message

As I write this, Christmas and Hanukah have come and gone, and the new year is upon us! I hope everyone has had a great holiday! I'm looking forward to a productive 2012 for our nation, our businesses, and our organization! The November meeting, when Joy Davis presented a demonstration of social media in action, gave us a taste of our future business environment. As we move into this future era, the Central Pennsylvania Chapter Board has discussed combining the old Publicity and Electronic Communications Committees into one entity. Newspaper advertising and snail mail are beginning to be anachronisms in our society, and we need to adapt to the new realities we face. We are phasing out the post card reminders that we have used for a number of years to publicize meetings, and are replacing them with email "blasts" to remind members and others of upcoming meetings and other events. Those of you who have not provided your email address to the Chapter will continue to receive post cards reminders for the immediate future. If you have not provided your email address to the Chapter, you may want to do that now to avail yourself of the email announcements of events (those of you who have provided email addresses to us may want to verify that we have your current email address too).

The December meeting featured a program entitled "Implementing BIM in Central PA", and

From the Editor's Desk

Jeff Snyder, Awards Committee Chairman, has informed me that the Central Pennsylvania Chapter of CSI has received a 2011 Outstanding Chapter Commendation from Kelly Porter, CSI Board Member and Executive Operations Coordinator. The Central Pa Chapter has received this award at the Silver Level, which indicates that our chapter has received this award for 10 consecutive years. I believe that this is a true honor for our chapter and its outstanding leaders, membership and activities.

Jeff Turicik CSI
Editor

The Central PA Chapter dues include all meals for the chapter program dinner meetings for the year.

Come out to our meeting to network, socialize, and learn about timely subjects in the Construction Field.

Set Yourself Apart

Standard's requirements, understand how the certification process works, review successful green certified projects, and find out how to market green features. Get all the information you need to get your next project Green Certified to the Standard and set your project apart from the competition.

Learning Objectives:

1. Explain the development of the National Green Building Standard, its scope, and the opportunities for residential project certification.
2. Identify program eligibility requirements for certification under the National Green Building Standard and how it compares to other green rating systems.
3. Learn what land development and building projects are eligible for certification and how to determine eligibility.
4. Understand the process, roles, and responsibilities of the participants.

Discuss the revision process for the Standard and what changes are expected for the 2012 version.

This program is eligible for NAHB CGP continuing education credits and 1 AIA Learning Unit Sustainable Design credit.

President's Message

was very informative for me and I hope to others present. The program showed that many challenges to implement a BIM program remain, and a business as usual approach will most likely result in a failed implementation strategy! This seems to be the look of things to come, and we as an organization need to embrace its challenges to stay relevant.

Institute's Community Development Committee has asked the Regions to help identify the Region's communications needs, and the Region has asked the Chapters to provide answers to 8 questions. The odd thing is that few of the questions have to do directly with communications. For example, the first question is "What do you need to be successful as a Chapter?" I think the answer to this question is obvious, a Chapter cannot be successful without dedicated members who are willing to give of their time and talents to help themselves and others to learn something new. We are fortunate to have a core of very dedicated members who recognize the value of this organization. I recognize the many officers, committee chairs and co-chairs, the instructors who volunteer their time to teach the CDT review course at HACC, and many others who step up when needed to mentor their peers! As Joy Davis pointed out at our November meeting, we as an organization have the knowledge and expertise that others lack but need! We just have to find a way of communicating that fact to the new generation that craves to find answers, and convey to them that we are here to help! We all know how much CSI can benefit our careers and friendships. Bring a friend to CSI functions and help yourself and them to learn something new!

I hope to see you at January's dinner meeting at the Radisson when we will have a program entitled "Set Yourself Apart: Get Your Residential Project Green Certified to the National Green Building Standard," a presentation and discussion led by Michelle Desiderio, Director, Green Building Programs, National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) Research Center.

Chapter Certification Study Course

January begins the Chapter Certification Study Course at the Midtown HACC Campus. If you are interested in the program, follow the instructions below to get enrolled. It is highly recommended for anyone taking the CDT exam. February 2nd is the early deadline to register for the CDT, CCS, CCPR, and CCCA exams, so don't delay. March 2nd is the final deadline.

What is CDT? It stands for Construction Documents Technology. Some of the benefits to getting your CDT means:

- Adding "CDT" after your name, to your business card and to your resume
- Understanding how a project unfolds from conception to delivery
- Understanding the documentation involved
- Getting listed in the Certificant's Directory

The certification exams are scheduled for April 2 - 28, 2012, and are available at Prometric Testing locations throughout central Pennsylvania. Go to www.csinet.org and click on "Certification" in the upper right-hand corner.

Study Course:

Dates: January 23 thru April 2, 2011
(Monday evenings for 10 weeks)

Time: 5:30 to 8:30 PM

Location: HACC Midtown Campus
4th and Reily Streets, Harrisburg, PA

Cost: $140 (subject to change - check HACC website)

Registration: Refer to www.hacc.edu for registration requirements.

Textbook: CSI's Project Delivery Practice Guide

The study course is designed to assist candidates preparing for the examination by offering a complete overview of CSI's Project Delivery Practice Guide and the AIA General Conditions publications. The course will be offered as both a 1-credit course in HACC's Building Construction Technology curriculum and a non-credit course in HACC's continuing education program. Registration is available now.

To register: Go to www.HACC.edu and click Admissions.

Non-credit course enrollment: Call HACC for CRN No.

Credit course enrollment: Course No. CRN 34500

It's also a great way to brush up on your skills regarding contract document relationships, change orders procedures and formats, or the elusive contents of the AIA A201.

If you have any questions about the class or the certification program feel free to contact me at 717-263-8464 or pbrunski@noelkerhull.com.
